United Way Impact Success Story: Drs. Gary & Susan Cohn

With each day and each dollar, United Way strives to create positive change and improve people's lives; that community-wide transformation often starts with our youngest citizens. Research shows that for every tax dollar invested in early child care and education, $16 is returned to society through better graduation rates, workforce readiness and reduced crime. Results like these have benefits that ripple out to the county as a whole.

Long-time supporters of education and United Way, Drs. Gary and Susan Cohn delight in seeing our community's charitable contributions make a difference in the lives of children – Gary is the superintendent for Everett Public Schools while Susan works for the Washington State Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction. With gifts from dedicated donors like the Cohns more than 7,800 kids are enrolled in early learning programs funded in part by United Way of Snohomish County, ready to learn and thrive.
