According to the Puget Sound Business Journal (PSBJ), Cedar Wood Elementary School is the best elementary school in the Puget Sound region.

“So proud of my staff and students!” shared Principal Bruce Rhodes. “Proud to collaborate and lead this great school.”

Analyzing data from the Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction (OSPI), which includes recent data available on test scores, teacher experience, racial and economic diversity and classroom size, PSBJ ranks the top 100 elementary schools.

“This recognition is the result of great work being done at Cedar Wood,” said Superintendent Ian Saltzman. “I am very proud of Cedar Wood’s teachers, staff and Principal Rhodes. And thank you parents and community for supporting our schools!”

Everett Public Schools has five more elementary schools in the top 100: Garfield, Mill Creek, Forest View, Penny Creek and Whittier elementary schools.
