Dear colleagues:

I have been in the district one month now. As part of my 120-day entrance plan, I have spent a lot of time meeting with staff, administrators, board directors and community leaders. I have also spent time visiting the 10 different schools where summer school is being held. It has been great to see the engagement the teachers and staff have with the students and it's clear by the smiles the time is productive.

As back-to-school work revs up in August I will be spending much more time with school leadership and participating in many department kick-offs. If I haven't already met you, I look forward to doing so soon. It is exciting to see the energy for the new school year starting to build!

I also want to make sure I have time to hear from our families and community, so I am scheduling three community listening events. These events will be a time for me to meet and hear directly from the community on what they think is going well in the district, what things may be improved upon, and any advice they have for me as their new superintendent.

I wanted to let you know these were happening and hope you can spread the word as well.
