

Stand against hatred | March 18 at 10:30 a.m.

Web announcement and social media plan

Report it!

3 easy ways

Text or call
855-637-2095

1350@alert1.us
<http://1350.alert1.us>

WEB ANNOUNCEMENT

Headline: Stand against hatred

Teaser Text: Reflecting on all the amazing things we have learned, implemented and developed in order to continue educating our students during a pandemic, there are still areas of struggle in our community and nation. One of those is the increase in racial hate crimes and harassment of Asian, Asian-American and Pacific

Islanders (AAPI). Every person living in America should feel safe from discriminatory violence and harassment. It takes each of us to rebuild our society to be respectful and inclusive, including our schools. If you see it, report it! Click headline for letter to families.

Link: <https://bit.ly/2Nv8j9P> | link to letter to families

TWITTER

Reflecting on the amazing things we have learned to continue educating students during a pandemic, there are still areas of struggle in our community & nation. One of those is the increase in racial hate crimes & harassment of Asian, Asian-American & Pacific Islanders (AAPI). 1/2

Every person living in America should feel safe from discriminatory violence and harassment. It takes each of us to rebuild our society to be respectful and inclusive, including our schools. If you see it, report it! Read letter to families: <https://bit.ly/2Nv8j9P> 2/2

FACEBOOK

Stand against hatred.

As we look back on the last year and all of the amazing things we have learned, implemented and developed in order to continue educating our students during a pandemic, there are still some areas of struggle in our community and our nation. One of those is the increase in racial hate crimes and harassment of Asian, Asian-American and Pacific Islanders (AAPI).

“As more students return to in-person learning and our community begins to resume a sense of normalcy, I hope we can all observe and be aware of our students’ experiences and interactions with each other,” shared Dr. Saltzman in a message to school families. “It is up to each of us to ensure they feel seen, heard and, most importantly, safe.”

Every person living in America should feel safe from discriminatory violence and harassment. It takes each of us to rebuild our society to be respectful and inclusive. If you see it, report it!

Read letter to families: <https://bit.ly/2Nv8j9P>

INSTAGRAM

Stand against hatred.

As we look back on the last year and all of the amazing things we have learned, implemented and developed in order to continue educating our students during a pandemic, there are still some areas of struggle in our community and our nation. One of those is the increase in racial hate crimes and harassment of Asian, Asian-American and Pacific Islanders (AAPI).

“As more students return to in-person learning and our community begins to resume a sense of normalcy, I hope we can all observe and be aware of our students’ experiences and interactions with each other,” shared Dr. Saltzman in a message to school families. “It is up to each of us to ensure they feel seen, heard and, most importantly, safe.”

Every person living in America should feel safe from discriminatory violence and harassment. It takes each of us to rebuild our society to be respectful and inclusive. If you see it, report it!

Read letter to families at www.everettsd.org

CONTENT:

As we look back on the last year and all of the amazing things we have learned, implemented and developed in order to continue educating our students during a pandemic, there are still some areas of struggle in our community and our nation. One of those is the increase in racial hate crimes and harassment of Asian, Asian-American and Pacific Islanders (AAPI).

Every person living in America should feel safe from discriminatory violence and harassment. It takes each of us to rebuild our society to be respectful and inclusive.

“As more students return to in-person learning and our community begins to resume a sense of normalcy, I hope we can all observe and be aware of our students’ experiences and interactions with each other,” shared Dr. Saltzman in a message to school families. “It is up to each of us to ensure they feel seen, heard and, most importantly, safe.”

And if your student experiences harassment or bullying at school, please report it:

Text or call 855-637-2095

Email 1350@alert1.us

Or visit <https://everett-wa.safeschoolsalert.com/>

Our schools should be a safe place for staff and students, and we are committed to that goal.