The content focus includes the three major areas listed below. Yearly, one of them is emphasized more than the others. For 2014, Presentation Skills will be the focus.

Charismatic Leadership

Success still comes down to relationships...create the relationships you want.

- Identify and incorporate traits of charismatic leaders.
- Understand and accept yourself and others.
- Improve your leadership skills and manage difficult personalities.
- Interpret your and others' behaviors more accurately.
- Increase your competence by reducing bad surprises.
- Use the "cats and dogs" model to better understand people.

Group Dynamics

It is never your group. It is the group's group.

- Build rapport between you and the group, within the group.
- Learn how group size, length of time together, and participants' familiarity with each other influence group dynamics.
- Recognize and utilize leaders and barometers in a group.
- Pace and lead resistance.
- Read a group; deal with power issues.

Presentation Skills

Increase your congruency. Includes:

- Systematic use of non-verbals.
- In-house vs. public meeting skills.
- How to get an "agreement frame," increasing relevance.
- Understanding the interplay of content, process, and permission.
- Recognizing and increasing receptivity.
- How not to get shot. Handling attacks.

The special feature for the year 2015 will be Charismatic Leadership.
