12th GRADE STUDENTS

Making a Decision

May 1st is the deadline for students across the nation to send in their commitment to the college or university that they will attend the following academic year. If you received acceptance offers from a college, university, or training program, congratulations! Now is the time for to decide which school is the best fit. If you are unsure of which school to select, try these ideas:

- Get more information.
- Ask questions.
- Visit — or revisit the campuses.
- Talk to current students at the college.
- Think things over.
- Compare the colleges.
- Compare financial aid awards.

If you have not used this tool, you definitely need to try it!

BigFuture's Compare Your Aid Awards tool. You can find it at:

<https://bigfuture.collegeboard.org/pay-for-college/financial-aid-awards/compare-aid-calculator>. It lets you compare up to four financial aid offers side by side. Talk about which colleges work best financially. Is the school that offers the most financial aid the best match for finances overall? Which financial aid package is most workable for your family? Which financial aid package best matches your student's long-term goals?

Once you have decided which college you want to attend, inform all the colleges that accepted you about the decision. You must accept an offer of admission and submit a deposit to secure a spot at that institution. If the deposit is a hardship and you cannot afford it, call the financial aid office for help. Additionally, make sure to send in any items that the school has requested.

Students, who are waitlisted or did not get in, should see your school counselor for information on next steps.

Myth Buster

MYTH: College professors do not ever get to know their students personally.

REALITY: Students develop relationships in the same way they did with their teachers in high school. For example, by talking to them before, after or during class, college students will have the opportunity to develop relationships with their professors as well. While instructors are also very busy individuals, they are there to help students learn.

Depending on the size of a college class, students may have more or less access to their professor in class. However, each professor will also have office hours during which students can visit him or her.

Relationships with professors are also important when students need to request letters of recommendation for scholarships, internships, graduate school, or other activities.
