Cascade and H.M. Jackson high school students take photography awards

In the 2008 Snohomish Arts Council annual Black and White Photography contest, the work of Cascade and H.M. Jackson students earned more than one third of the awards. In addition, Jordan DeGaetano, a Cascade junior took the Grand Prize award for his entry 21st Century Madonna. Of the 16 other awards granted in the contest's two categories, six went to students in grades 10, 11 or 12 from Cascade or H.M. Jackson.

Cascade art teacher Yvonne Linnabary was naturally pleased with the judges' decisions. Needless to say I am thrilled that one of our students won Best of Show. This is the second time our program has been honored with that award. In 2005, we also took Best of Show, plus first, second and third place awards. It is an embarrassment of riches, and my treasures are my students. They are amazing.

Cascade and H.M. Jackson student winners in the categories of Traditional Analog Prints and Digital Output Prints are:

TRADITIONAL Honorable Mention recipients:

Ilona Palamarchuk, "Sky Dance", Cascade High School, Grade 12

DIGITAL
