Hi All,

The excitement is building as we are 1 week out from our first Learning Improvement Day and 2 weeks out from the first day of school. It seems like a lifetime ago since we were all in the building together, and even now we will still not all be together. Is that what they mean by 2 life sentences? Attached to this email is the agenda for the two days.

Karen and I are learning, failing, trying again and slowly getting better with many new technology challenges. We are excited to model failing forward for you next week

Enjoy the next week of summer break and we look forward to seeing all of your smiling faces next Wednesday, September 2.
