Writing Assessment

Directions to the Student

For this assessment, you will have one writing task. In order to earn the best possible score, be sure you follow directions and write in the assigned mode/purpose for the task.

This writing task will allow you to follow all of the steps of the writing process: prewriting, writing a first draft, revising, editing, and writing a final draft. This task has accompanying scoring criteria.

There is space provided in the test booklet for prewriting. You will receive several pieces of scratch paper for creating a draft. However, you must write your final draft for the writing task in this booklet.

Please note: For the writing task, the only piece of writing that will be scored is what is written in this booklet. Additional pages inserted into this booklet will not be scored.

There are several important things to remember:

1. You will have as much time as you need for the writing task.
2. For this writing task you are allowed to use a thesaurus and a dictionary in print or electronic form. Spell check may not be used.
3. Your final draft for this writing task must be written in this booklet on the pages provided. Additional pages inserted in this booklet will not be scored.
4. When writing your final draft in this booklet, be sure to write neatly and clearly on the lines provided. Cross out or erase any part of your work you do not want to include as part of your final draft.
5. If you finish the writing task early, you may check over your work.
6. When you reach the word STOP in your booklet, do not turn the page.

Scoring Criteria for the Writing Task

Checklist for Writing to Inform or Explain

My essay or letter will be effective if I:

Have good content and organization. That means I...

- follow the directions in the writing task,
- narrow the topic and stay focused on the main idea,
- use well-chosen, specific details, reasons, and/or examples to support my ideas,
- use information that is interesting, thoughtful, and important,
- organize my writing with an introduction, body (supporting ideas or reasons), and a conclusion,
- organize my writing in paragraphs,
- use transitions to connect my ideas;

Have an interesting style. That means I ...

- show that I am committed to my topic,
- use language that is appropriate for my audience and purpose,
- use specific words that help the reader understand my ideas,
- use different types and lengths of sentences;

Follow conventions in writing. That means I ...

- write complete sentences,
- use correct capitalization and punctuation,
- use correct grammar,
- spell words correctly,
- show where new paragraphs begin.

Writing Task

Expository Writing

Directions: Today, you will write an expository composition. In expository writing, a writer fully explains the main idea or thesis using details, reasons, and /or examples. In order to earn the best possible score, be sure that you follow directions and write in the expository mode.

For this writing task, you will have the opportunity to follow all of the steps of the writing process: prewriting, writing a first draft, revising, editing, and writing a final draft. You may use a dictionary and thesaurus in print or electronic form. Spell check may not be used.

The only piece of writing that will be scored is your final draft. Your score will be based on the scoring criteria listed on the previous page. Be sure to refer to this checklist of scoring criteria to help you write an effective expository letter. Additional pages inserted into this booklet will not be scored.

YOUR TASK

If you could have any job, what job would you choose? In a multiple-paragraph letter, explain to your counselor what your ideal job would be and why you would choose that job.

Expository Writing Task

Prewriting

Directions: Prewriting is a great way to get started on a writing task because it gives you ideas to start with. It also helps you organize your ideas before you write. There are different kinds of prewriting. Choose one of the following, or another one that you know and like, and use the next page (and additional scratch paper if you need more space) to do the prewriting.

- Draw a web or a cluster with circles connected by lines. In the circles, write ideas that develop and support your topic (details, reasons, and/or examples). Draw lines to connect ideas that are related in some way. Then, decide how you will organize your ideas.

OR

- List ideas that develop and support your topic. You don't have to write complete sentences. At first, don't worry about the order of the ideas. After you have finished your list, you can go back and organize your ideas.

OR

- Do an outline.

OR

- Do another kind of prewriting that you know and like.

Prewriting

Directions: Use the space below, or the scratch paper provided, for your prewriting. Remember, your prewriting will not be scored.

First Draft

Directions: Use the best ideas from your prewriting to write your first draft on the scratch paper provided. Since it is a draft, it is okay to cross out words and sentences and try different ways to get your ideas across. You may use a thesaurus and a dictionary in print or electronic form. Spell check may not be used. Remember, your first draft will not be scored.

Final Draft

Directions: Before you begin your final draft, read the checklist on page 2 again. Then make revisions and edits to your final draft according to the checklist. When you have made your revisions and edits, write your final draft on this page and the next four pages, if you need them.

After you have finished writing your final draft in the booklet, read the checklist one more time to make sure you have done your most effective writing. If you need to make any final revisions or edits, make them on your final draft. Remember, you may use a thesaurus and dictionary in print or electronic form to help you with your words. Spell check may not be used. Your final draft will be scored.
