Jackson High School student earns Congressional art recognition

Skylar Barrett, a JHS senior was honored April 27 at the Washington State 1st Congressional District Art Contest.

Here, Barrett stands with Congresswoman Suzan DelBene next to her watercolor art print representing the mascots of US political parties.

Barrett received her Congressional Certificate of Special Recognition after choosing to take part in an optional project in Mr. Trueit's U.S. government class at JHS.

The Congressional Art Competition began in 1982 as a way for members of Congress to encourage and recognize artistic talents of their constituents. Since then over 650,000 high school students have been involved with the nation-wide competition.
