Career Interest Profiler Details

The tool has 180 very brief questions about work activities.

Make sure when you choose your answers think about whether you would like or dislike doing an activity if you had the chance to do it.

Don't worry...this is not a test and there are no right or wrong answers. Just answer each question as accurately as possible.

Career Interest Profiler

Introduction

You are about to begin the Career Interest Profiler, a tool that can help you discover the types of work activities and careers that match your interests. The interest profiler has 180 questions about work activities that people do at their jobs.

When choosing your answers, think about whether you would like or dislike doing a particular work activity if you had a chance to do it. Try not to think about whether you have enough education or training to perform the activity.

This is not a test. There are no right or wrong answers. The more accurately you answer each question, though, the better your results will be. If you need to leave the profiler in the middle and return later, remember to complete all the answers on the page you are on and click the "Save and Continue" button. When you return to this section, you will pick up where you left off.

When you are ready to begin, please click the "Start Profiler" button below.

Definitions

Realistic: Realistic occupations frequently involve work activities that include practical, hands-on problems and solutions. They often deal with plants, animals, and real-world materials like wood, tools, and machinery. Many of the occupations require working outside, and do not involve a lot of paperwork or working closely with others.

Investigative: Investigative occupations frequently involve working with ideas, and using logic to observe, discover, and solve problems. They often involve searching for facts and figuring out problems mentally.

Artistic: Artistic occupations frequently involve working with forms, designs and images, and creating or expressing ideas. They often require original and creative ideas, and without following a clear set of rules.

Social: Social occupations frequently involve working with, communicating with, and teaching others. They often require providing service to others.

Enterprising: Enterprising occupations frequently involve starting up and carrying out projects. These occupations can involve leading people and making many decisions. Sometimes they require risk taking and often deal with business.

Conventional: Conventional occupations frequently involve following set procedures and routines. These occupations can include working with data and details more than with ideas. Usually there is a clear line of authority to follow.

These are the definitions of your interest categories.

Job Zone Two: Some Preparation Needed

- Overall Experience
Some previous work-related skill, knowledge, or experience may be helpful in these occupations, but usually is not needed. For example, a teller might benefit from experience working directly with the public, but an inexperienced person could still learn to be a teller with little difficulty.
- Education
These occupations usually require a high school diploma and may require some vocational training or job-related course work. In some cases, an associate's or bachelor's degree could be needed.
- Job Training
Employees in these occupations need anywhere from a few months to one year of working with experienced employees.
- Examples
These occupations often involve using your knowledge and skills to help others. Examples include sheet metal workers, forest fire fighters, customer service representatives, pharmacy technicians, salespersons (retail), and tellers.
