

Guidelines for S/U Grading (if students qualify)

Is the student in the Life Skills Program?

Life Skills Case Managers: Marisa Cundy Mary Lamken	Life Skills Programs Guidelines for S/U: Students need to meet one learning target to earn an S. The case manager will work with general education teachers to identify this target.

When debating how to apply this accommodation, keep the following in mind...

- Is this student in the Life Skills program or other program (different guidelines apply)
- Has the student been attending regularly (if not, are the reasons they aren't here within their control)?
- Has the student been exerting as much effort or more effort than students in your classes passing with a D or better?
- Is there a correlation between their formative and summative grades?
 - Has the student done really well on formative, but bombed the summative assessments?
 - Has the student done decently on their summative assessments, but isn't hitting the mark because of formative stuff?
- Has the student made an effort to improve their grade by attempting missing assignments, asking for make up work, coming in for extra help during lunch (or other times that work for the teacher) even if it didn't have the desired effect?
- When you look at the student holistically, does their grade correlate?
- Has the student been using/receiving their accommodations and modifications?

*Please don't hesitate to reach out to the case manager to discuss *******

If after walking through these questions the answer is still 'failure', please remember to assign the student a "U" rather than an "F" per their individualized education plan and let the case manager know. This is part of their IEP.

Note: When receiving a "U" students will still have to retake the course, it will still impact graduation requirements, and it doesn't get them out of their obligation to meet standards.
