Cascade High School's yearbook, that was created and developed in the Career and Technical Education (CTE) Publications class was judged by Walsworth Publishing's executive leadership team and awarded the Award of Excellence. This award is only given to the top 2% of books in the nation. They were awarded for their design and innovative use of Aurasma, an augmented reality application that uses image recognition and plays videos through smart devices that are attached to photos in the yearbook. Students who earn a B or better in this class are also eligible to receive 4 college credits through Lake Washington Technical College.
